In addition to the specialised Airfield taxiway signals, Airport indicators and Aircraft docking signals, Signature also offers other products within its range for use in Airport locations. All products are manufactured to meet or exceed current signing regulations and through continued active membership with BSI, ARTSM, HEMSA, ILE and other governing authorities, Signature will continue to invest in research and development to meet any prevailing changes in legislation.

REMOTE LIGHT SOURCE

Although primarily designed for use on our UK highways, the internally illuminated traffic sign system lends itself to other applications where large illuminated signage is required by offering low maintenance and overall cost savings.

Illumination is by means of light passing through a transportation tube from its housing into the side of the signbox. This method replaces the old method of fluorescent tubing and still offers illuminated in the event of power failure.

During the day-time the sharp contrast between the colours makes the legend stand out, and at night as well as allowing light to pass through, it also reflects external lights, bouncing the beam back to the source and reinforcing the legibility of the sign.

Performance reliability is offered both day and night with its unique uniform illumination providing all-weather visibility.
